When Legislators "Pair."

When a legislator wishes to be abvote is to be taken, he finds some member who intends to vote on the other legislator agrees to refrain from voting, as an accommodation to the first. The net result when neither vote is cast is the same as if both had voted on opposite sides. Both legislators can then be absent if they wish without loss or gain to either side.

Watering House Plants.

Plants should be watered with a spray, not with a cup or a glass. age carpets or floors; those that cannot-such as large ferns or palmsshould have something sprend on the floor beneath them to catch the water as it drips. The water must be sprayed from above so that all the leaves receive it; this carries off the dust and is the only natural way for a plant to receive water.

Use Stove Brooder Instead of Mother Hen

Farm poultry keepers, always quick to appreciate more efficient equipment, are rapidly discarding all other brooding methods in favor of colony stoves. for Transmission as Second Class Matter. Stove brooders afford the easiest and cheapest method of brooding large flocks of chicks. With the coal or oilflocks of chicks. With the coal or oil. A true copy from the record, heated colony hovers from three to five First published March 4, 1920 25-15 hundred chicks can be handled in one flock with no more labor than is required with a few dozen chicks brooded with hens or with lamp heated brooders. The chick mortality is remarkably low on farms using colony stoves and little difficulty is experiencd in raising early hatched chicks. The fuel cost for brooders is low, and the stoves are durable.

Brooder stoves are used in all kinds of buildings but best results are secured with a specially designed colony house. It should be warm, dry, well lighted and ventilated, and be large enough to furnish room for exersise. It should also be movable so that the chicks may have fresh ground for range.

The Missouri colony brooder house is designed to meet at least expense all the requirements of a farm brooder house. This house, as described by T. S. Townsley in extension circular 74 of the University of Missouri College First published March 1, 1930 25-15 of Agriculture is built eight by ten feet with a gable roof. BROAD STAND ON FARMER BY WOOD

HE TELLS HIS OPINION OF AGRI-CULTURE'S NEEDS AT THIS TIME.

Chlengo, Ill,-In an answer to a query from one of the leaders of agricurists of the county, Leonard Wend, Republican candidate for presidential nomination, yesterday gave one of the most candid statements of his position toward the farmer that has ever been published by a political candidate.

After declaring that the decline of agriculture is one of the greatest dangers the country faces, and that the farmer, as the backbone of the nation, is entitled to every administrative encouragement and a square deal all around, Wood gave as the sallent points in his agricultural beliefs:

"I. The turmer sacrificed much during the war. We owe him a debt of gratitude we never can repay for his stanch loyalty.

2 Education for farm children should be as easily accessible and on as high a plane as that of city children, with vocational training to the last degree, in a broad, consolidated school system.

"3. We must give the rural districts good roads, for commerce and rela-

"4. There must be a department of agriculture in full and intelligent coperation with the farmer and the creat farm organizations.

"5. I believe in a far closer connecion between producers and consumers of food. Too small a portion of the consumer's cost gets back to the "6. Hoarding of food supplies should be rigorously suppressed.

"7. Secure provision should be made to enable farmers to get adequate redit to extend farming interests.

"S. There should be bigger supplies of fertilizer available at cheaper

"9. I believe that the treatment of co-operative organizations of formers should be with the same consideration as to other organizations under similar circumstances.

"10, I believe in the gradual abolition of farm tenancy and encouragement of ownership of land by the individual farmer.

"II. I believe in a wide extension of the farm bureau system which seems well fitted to solve many of the economic questions which confront the farmer-problems of production and distribution."

"Poor Man's Weather Gass." The figures of which the leaves of the horse-chestnut are made up keep flat and fanlike so long as the fine weather is likely to continue. With the coming of rain, however, they droop, as if to offer less resistance to the weather. The scarlet pimpernel is known in England as the poor man's wenther-gla .. and opens its flowers only when the weather is fair.

Sought Trees for Protection.

Tree-dwellers are found among savages in various parts of the world. According to the scientists the first habitations of mankind were in the trees as the most adequate protection against the many enemies of the early type of man. It was only in the later period of man's evolution that he was strong enough to hold his own on the ground.

For You at a Real "Bargain" Price.

The GLOBE-DEMOCRAT solicits your patronage solely on its merrits as a truly great newspaper. It prints all the news of all the world. It long since runized that the day of the party organ has passed; that the newspaper that claims to wield the largest and most salutary influence must considers public questions upon the single basis of right; that the interests of the country and the general welfare of the people should not be subordinated to the interests of any organization, political or otherwise, and during the last few years it has shaped its course upon this conviction. That course will be continued. Every reader of the GLOBE DEMOCBAT, whatever his party, must admit that, while he may not laways agree with its opinions, they are nevertheless founded upon sincere judgment of the right, and that, we assert, is the essential quality of the editorial policy of a newspaper. In its presentation of the news the GLOBB-DEMO-CRAT endeavors to be accurate, fair and impartial, presenting facts witout color or prejudice.
